The Reading company's Draper colfiery, at Gilberton, which has been idle for several months, during the progresa of necessary repairs, will become active again about June 1. The jig house has been torn down and an entirely new and modern structure is being erected in its place. The roof 14c. screen shafts have been put into place. The breaker will be fitted out with all the latest improved machinery.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazzite grows facetions at Tom Johnson. It says that his "several-million-dollar steel plant, which has been bumping up against things in a journalistic way here and there in Ohio, threatens to get located at last. At least the matter is said to have progressed so far as as the drawing up of the corporation papers. It has been sagely imagined that Mr. Johnson's always-future plant was principally useful as a fancy back-ground for the free-trade eccentricities, but at last there has been a permanent investment. Incorporation papers cost money for legal talent and clerical work, and though this expense doesn't cut much of a figure alongside the other millions to be invested, it is not to be overlooked. Mr. Johnson is evidently in no jesting mood now and may the good work go on."

The Moosic Mountain Coal company is erecting a new breaker for their Marshwood mines at Jessup, which will have a capacity of 1,000 tons per day, and will prepare coal by the wet and dry process The new breaker, says the Carbondale Leader, is located at a point contiguous to three different railroad lines, so that shipments may early be made to all markets as soon as the new structure is finished, which will require about five weeks' time. The company has for this breaker about 4000 acres, which tract was acquired of the Pennsylvania Coal company, and a new shaft is being sunk to the Clarke and five foot veins, which present a face of excellent anthracite. The colliery will be the equal of Mount Jessup, which is operated by the same company, when completed.

An order has been posted in the machine department or the Reading railroad shops in Reading that hereafter the employes are to work every other week, eight hours a day a week. Nxet week will see the inauguration of the new method. The order is to apply to the iron foundry, brass foundry and carpenter and p dat snops.

As soon as the Delaware and Hul-you Coal Company's lease of the Lucal Ron colliery expires, which will not be until April 1, 1895, the colliery will be leased by the Algonquin Coal Com-pany, which recently secured the Pine Ridge mine at Minor's Mills.

Stocks and Ponds. New York, April 6.—The dealings at the Stock exchange today were characterized by marked strength without, however, any material increase in the volume of transactions, the sales nugregating 213,500 chars. The bears made a drive against Distilling and Cattle Feeding at the opening on the strength of the developments in regard to the quo warranto proceedings and the stock declined 1½. The attack was undoubtedly intended to influence the general market, but the buying power was such as to mare their courts. was such as to more than counte-balance the sales for the short account and a recovery set in which gradually extended to the entire line of rail-way and Industrial shares. Speculation affected to some extent by reports from Washington that the Wilson bill may be defeated. The advance was equal to %a 2 per cent., Segar, Distillers, Lend, the General Electric scoring the greatest im-provement. Rock Island moved up suddealy from 70% to 73% on reports that the differences between the company and the Minneapolis and St. Louis had been ad-justed. The market closed strong at or near the best figures of the day.

WHAT A PROFESSOR SAYS

He Holds That No Man or Woman Need Ba Troubled Any More With Indigastion or Dyspensia.

"It is surprising what great advances are being made in the world." The speaker was the president of a leading college in New York and he was talking to company of friends at the club.

"Take for example man's foot. What are healthy foots for man? Doubtless those specified by Moses are the best in the animal kingdom, and vegetable foods that have not undergone decomposition are healthy foods. It is fermentation and decay that make foods unhealthy. This decomposition produces poison; it makes no difference whether the decomposition takes place before or after the food has been eaten, poison is the result, and poor health is sure to follow, If we eas too much healthy food and a portion of it is not digested the balance becomes soured and evolves poston, for poison is a a necessary result of the rotting pro-cess. What is the result? Ill health, is it not simple? Can you not see it is

His listners were all attention, and the professor continued: "Some people cannot digest food enough to support life. This class is growing larger and larger every day.
